ANNUAL REPORT 2017

Mission

The Actors Fund fosters stability and resiliency, and provides a safety net for performing arts and entertainment professionals over their lifespan.

Vision

We envision a world in which individuals contributing to our country's cultural vibrancy are supported, valued and economically secure.

Dear Friends,

It was a challenging year in many ways for our nation, but thanks to your generous support, The Actors Fund continues, stronger than ever.

Whether it's our quick and compassionate response to disasters like the hurricanes and California wildfires, or new beginnings, like the openings of The Shubert Pavilion at The Actors Fund Home (see cover photo), a facility that provides world class rehabilitative care, and The Friedman Health Center for the Performing Arts, our brand new primary care facility in the heart of Times Square, The Actors Fund continues to anticipate and provide for our community's most urgent needs.

Together, we're building on the foundation of our mission, by not only providing a safety net for performing arts and entertainment professionals over their lifespan, but also providing services that will foster stability and resiliency and allow our community to thrive at all stages of their careers.

A major focus last year was the development of a three-year strategic plan to help align our institutional goals with the changing needs of the performing arts and entertainment communities we serve. During the next three years, we plan to:

- Maximize partnerships with entertainment industry unions, associations and employers to serve more people;
- Grow The Actors Fund's impact nationally by expanding our Chicago office and bringing a selection of our programs to two new creative communities each year; and
- Create new residential opportunities to meet the housing needs of the people we serve.

We are looking at increasing social work staff in strategic areas, enhancing our technology to strengthen our ability to provide remote programming, and improving our messaging to help our community understand that, despite our name, The Actors Fund helps everyone in performing arts and entertainment—not just actors.

In early 2018, The Actors Fund opened The Waldman Living Room, a new senior center for elderly and retired arts professionals housed in our Dorothy Ross Friedman Residence on West 57th Street in Manhattan. The Waldman Living Room provides a dedicated home for our activities programming and a home base for seniors in our community to congregate and participate in a variety of creative activities as well as health and wellness programming to address the practical concerns of aging in New York City.

Our ongoing investment into increasing services for the senior members of our creative community has resulted in 1,474 senior and retired performing arts and entertainment professionals served in 2017, and we're likely to see that number increase in years to come.

Our increased activities programming extends to Los Angeles, too. With the support of The Elizabeth Taylor AIDS Foundation, The Actors Fund started an activities program at our Palm View residence in West Hollywood that has helped build community and provide creative outlets for residents and our larger HIV/AIDS caseload. And the Hollywood Arts Collective, a new affordable housing complex aimed at the performing arts community, is in the development phase.

Our work would not be possible without an engaged Board as well as the efforts of our top notch staff and volunteers.

In addition, Broadway Cares/Equity Fights AIDS continues to be our steadfast partner, assuring help is there in these uncertain times.

Your support is part of a grand tradition of caring for our entertainment and performing arts community. Thank you for helping to assure that the show will go on, and on.
